

Underutilized and unknown to many, there exists hug many players outside of the bank. Many Internet only banks have discovered that they have to use the savings in "brick and mortar" operating costs to pay much higher interest rates to attract customers as also incur substantial expense on brand building and operating call centers to address the large its technology infrastructure and risks effectively. The operational risks emanated from the large scale dependence of technol